Timo Wind is a strategy and business development expert with international experience in setting up growth initiatives and transformation projects. Most recently, he worked as a senior consultant at Grunenberg & Comp., where he developed a cloud growth strategy for a DAX40 bank and led the post-merger integration of a SaaS company in the financial services industry. He also designed the strategic realignment of an auditing firm.

Prior to that, he worked as an independent strategy and growth consultant with clients in the private equity and tech sectors and gained entrepreneurial experience as the founder of a PropTech start-up.

In November 2025, Felix Lenz will join the management of the newly created Strategic Business Development unit at technology and information provider MVB.
